

Acheson New Sec. Of State

Truman Says Foreign Policy Will Not Alter

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—President Truman today assigned a new team to run American foreign policy. Emphatically he denied that this means any softening of the "tough" policy toward Russia.

At a news conference, Mr. Truman announced: General George C. Marshall, 68 and in ill health has resigned as secretary of state effective Jan. 20.

Dean Acheson, lawyer and former undersecretary who is 13 years younger than Marshall, will be the new secretary and number one man in the president's second term cabinet.

Lovett Also Resigns
Robert A. Lovett, 53, Wall street banker and Marshall's undersecretary, will resign along with his chief January 20 for "personal reasons," meaning that he wants to get back to private life.

James E. Webb, 11 years younger than Lovett at 42, and now Mr. Truman's budget director, will succeed Lovett as undersecretary of state.

The immediate reaction to the Acheson appointment was mostly favorable. Cordell Hull, former secretary of state, called Acheson a man of "outstanding ability." Senator Connally (D-Tex.), new chairman of the foreign relations committee, expressed pleasure while calling Marshall's departure regrettable.

Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) said he expected some "concern" among senators over frequent changes in the state department which, he said, have prevented "consistency" in foreign policy.

Senate Must Approve
The changes are subject to senate confirmation.

In Britain, high officials expressed enthusiasm, terming Acheson "a friend of Britain." In accepting Marshall's resignation, Mr. Truman paid about the highest praise it would be possible for a president to apply to an associate. He said that Marshall was virtually an "indispensable man" and that he had hoped the general would be able to continue as secretary of state after recovering from the kidney operation he underwent Dec. 7.

Now, however, the president said in his letter to Marshall, he is "unwilling to assume the responsibility of further jeopardizing your health." Marshall is at Pinehurst, N.C., where he is slowly convalescing. He said he had no immediate plans for the future.

To reporters at a news conference, Mr. Truman remarked: "I think Gen. Marshall is the outstanding man of the war period."

Pravda Lovett
In accepting Lovett's resignation, Mr. Truman addressed him as "my dear Bob" and praised him for "the highest intellectual integrity, untiring industry, outstanding ability and selfless devotion to the public interest."

During the election campaigns, there were widespread reports that Mr. Truman was bitter about Lovett's actions in balking several proposed Truman moves in foreign policy. Both Marshall and Lovett held aloof from the presidential campaign. The president, however, denounced reports that he was displeased with Lovett and his letter today gave no hint of unfriendliness.

Almost the first question put to the president after he read out his list of changes at the news conference was whether the shakeup in the foreign policy high command would mean any shifts in the policy itself, particularly along the line forecast by newspaper columnist Jay Franklin in today's Life magazine.

No Change In Policy
Mr. Truman replied that the change in personnel meant absolutely no change in policy. He then went on to deny Franklin's article as without foundation. The newspaper columnist, who helped write some of Mr. Truman's campaign speeches, asserted that the president was fighting in his own cabinet to soften this nation's "tough" policy toward Russia.

Mr. Truman said he never held any private talks with Franklin and that Franklin never saw a top secret message of the government.

Moreover, the president took full responsibility for American foreign policy as developed by Marshall during the past two years. He sharply emphasized that he expects Acheson to develop vigorously the policies Marshall has shaped—such as the European recovery program and projected military support for western Europe.

Truman Endorses Flexible Support Of Farm Prices

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Flexible farm price supports received flat endorsement from President Truman's economic advisers today—but they failed to calm the uproar over the plan within Capitol Hill's farm bloc.

A powerful group wants to continue rigid supports at 90 per cent of parity, although many other legislators favor supports on a sliding scale.

Chairman Thomas (D-Okla.) of the Senate Agriculture committee said the economic report by the White House advisory council was "glittering generalities" insofar as the crop crops were concerned.

Rep. Murray (R-Wis.), a member of the House Agriculture committee, said the "trouble with the report is that it probably was written by persons who haven't been very close to the problems of farmers."

The economic council's report which Mr. Truman submitted to congress today, came out flatfootedly for the sliding scale. The president himself said in his accompanying message merely that "we need measures to encourage shifts in the composition of farm output realistically adjusted to our domestic and export needs." He said in his State of the Union message Wednesday that farm price supports are essential.

Flanagan Picked As Head Of State Reports Division

Chicago, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Governor-elect Adlai E. Stevenson today announced the appointment of William I. Flanagan, Chicago public relations man and former newspaperman, as head of the state division of reports.

The division is the state's publicity and relations office. Flanagan, 33, formerly was day city editor of the Chicago Sun and at present is Chicago manager for Howard G. Mayer & Associates, public relations firm.

A native of Peoria, Ill., he started in the newspaper business with the United Press and worked five years each for the Chicago Daily News and the Chicago Sun. He is a graduate of Loyola university, Chicago.

Flanagan's appointment was the third announced today by Stevenson. Earlier, he named Frank Annunzio, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois CIO political action committee, director of the state department of labor; and Fern R. Rauch, second vice president of the Illinois state federation of labor, deputy director of the department.

Approve Division Of Bankrupt Auto Dealer's Assets

Edwardsville, Ill., Jan. 7.—(AP)—A creditors' committee approved today at a meeting here a compromise plan for dividing assets of Robert L. Knetzer, bankrupt Edwardsville auto dealer, and the Knetzer Motor Sales company.

Bankruptcy referee Thomas Williamson said he would sign an order of approval. About 150 creditors attended the meeting and none voiced opposition to the plan, which was recommended by an attorney hired by the committee.

Knetzer and Arthur F. Kramer of Jerseyville, an associate, have been charged with conspiracy to defraud and with obtaining money through a confidence scheme by accepting large deposits on automobiles that were never delivered.

Acheson Is Experienced In Foreign Affairs

By J. M. Roberts, Jr.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
President Truman has slapped down suggestions that he is going into the appeasement business and appointed a new secretary of state with a broad background for the cold war.

The president replied to reports that he wanted to soften American policy toward Russia with an unequivocal denial. At the same time he announced the choice of Dean Acheson to succeed Secretary Marshall, whose retirement because of ill health was not unexpected.

Acheson, an early new deal appointee as undersecretary of the treasury, split with Franklin D. Roosevelt over revaluation of the dollar and resigned in 1933. He returned to the government as assistant secretary of state in 1941. He has been accused at times of leaning too far left. But he was one of the earliest proponents of interven-

Town In Path Of Lava Flow

SEARCH FOR PLANE LOST NEAR VOLCANO

Honolulu, Jan. 7.—(AP)—A plane carrying possibly four persons disappeared today on a flight to Mauna Loa, the erupting volcano.

The plane, a Stinson, last was reported seen this morning as it flew into clouds at the 9,000-foot level near the volcano.

The plane was the object of an aerial search. It had gasoline for only four hours of flight, and the maximum time that it could stay aloft has long passed.

Hoover Will Ask Executive Orders To Be Restored

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover said today that he will recommend restoration of the President's authority to reorganize the government through executive orders.

The only living former president went to the White House to get the President's view before disclosing his decision as chairman of the bi-partisan committee on reorganization of the executive branch.

Emerging from the President's office, Mr. Hoover told reporters he had conferred with the chief executive on only the one matter.

He recalled that President Roosevelt formerly had authority to reorganize the government subject to congressional veto, but that authority expired last April.

"We discussed whether the commission should or should not recommend that this authority be renewed," Mr. Hoover said, but said that the commission will recommend renewal.

Commission Okays Illinois Power's Construction Loan

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The securities and exchange commission today approved a plan of Illinois Power Co., Decatur, Ill., to borrow $25,000,000 from a group of banks to provide additional funds for new construction.

Illinois Power's present construction program is estimated to cost $37,400,000.

The approved credit agreement is of the revolving-fund nature, and provides that borrowings may be made from time to time during the coming year.

From the proceeds of the initial loans, Illinois Power plans to pay off $5,000,000 in promissory notes held by the Chase National Bank of New York.

Jap War Criminal Dies Of Cancer In U.S. Hospital

Tokyo, Saturday, Jan. 8.—(AP)—General Yoshijiro Umezu, who was sentenced by the International Military tribunal to life imprisonment for war crimes, died of cancer in a U.S. Army hospital today.

Umezu had been hospitalized since March and was informed while in bed of his sentence.

Sixty-six year old Umezu was one of the signers of Japan's surrender aboard the battleship Missouri. He formerly was commander of the Kwangtung army, chief of Japan's army general staff and supreme war councillor. The tribunal in passing sentence found Umezu "played a principal part in the waging of war against China and the western powers."

Hawaii's Big Mauna Loa Erupts

Hilo, Hawaii, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Famed Mauna Loa volcano, erupted with a violent burst of gas, sent streams of lava down its slope today toward the coffee fields and resorts on this island's western coast.

Schools were dismissed at the villages of Hanalei, Hoonani and Alae in the path of the westward advance of lava, but the slowness of the flow eased fears the villages would have to be evacuated.

Four streams of lava spilled from the snow-crowned volcano, which rises 13,680 feet above the sea. Sulphurous smoke boiled 18,000 feet above the peak when the volcano erupted yesterday.

Lava Two Miles Wide
Lava streams—12 to 15 winding miles long and as much as two miles wide on the west slope—oozed through the wilderness land of old lava beds.

Associated Press Correspondent Don Carlson in a flight over the crater said there was no cultivated land or ranch property for a considerable distance ahead of the slowing rivers of fiery rock.

There were three streams on the southwest and a fourth—as yet but two miles long—on the northeast slope. The northeast flow is the one worrying this city of 25,000. Hilo is 34 miles northeast of the summit.

Aerial observers said this flow seemed walled off by old lava ridges. But Hilo had its fingers crossed. Mauna Loa usually aims its lava shafts at this city. In 1981, it sent its flow to the outskirts.

No Sign Of Halt
Robert Hind, a rancher flying in his private plane, reported the lava moving at about two or three miles an hour down the southwest slope with no sign that it was about to halt.

It's smoking front was still 13 miles from Hanalei, a coastal village about 20 miles west of the fiery summit. About 15 miles north of Hanalei lies the well-known resort and fishing port of Kona. Kona is 22 miles from the summit.

If the lava reaches the sea it probably will do so near Hanalei. In that case it would cut through the coffee lands and sever the west coast highway.

However, lava never has reached the sea on the western coast. The history is that as lava advances its pace slows materially.

Spectacular Sight
Volcanologist Ruy H. Finch said there was little immediate danger to life or property but there might be trouble should vents open up on the slopes. The lava now is coming from the summit at Mokuawe-weo, one of the two main craters. The other and better known crater, Kilauea, lies well below the top.

The eruption was a spectacular sight. Pilots taking off from Honolulu's airport more than 200 miles to the northwest could see the glowing crater plainly.

Airliners en route to the United States from Honolulu detoured south so passengers could get a good look. Pilots said the red lava against the backdrop of snow was "a beautiful spectacle."

Springfield Seeks Television Station

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 7.—(AP)—An application to construct a 25,000 Watt television station in Springfield was filed today with the federal communications commission by the Sangamon Valley Television corporation.

J. S. Keller of WTAX, Springfield, is president of the corporation. Merrill Lindsay of WSOY is vice president. O. J. Keller Jr. of WTAX, secretary, and Herbert B. Barthol of Springfield, treasurer.

President Leaves Problem Of Labor Law To Congress

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—President Truman is leaving to congress the tough problem of how to write a new labor law.

At his news conference today, he refused to say whether his various labor law proposals should be done up in "one package," or two or three.

This question is the hottest issue of the day in the labor-management field. At least three interpretations of the president's position have been made on the basis of his "state of the union" message to congress two days ago.

But when a reporter asked him today about the "one-package" idea, he replied quickly that he had made his position clear on labor proposals, and that the legislative end is up to congress.

He replied so quickly the reporter had not completed his question. The reporter began asking it again. Mr. Truman interrupted him a second time with the same reply.

In his message the President proposed repeal of the Taft-Hartley act, which unions dislike, and enactment of the original Wagner act, which unions like. He added, however, that "certain improvements" to the Wagner act are needed. These three things could be done all at once, or consecutively.

Judge Re-Instates Suit After Hearing Man's Tale Of Woe

Chicago, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Attorney William C. Jerome asked Judge Peter H. Schwab today to reinstate a $75,000 damage suit dismissed last June 22 for want of prosecution.

"Why didn't you appear in court when this case came up for trial?" the judge asked Jerome, who represents the plaintiff.

"Your honor, it was tough luck," Jerome replied. "In February, I was injured when a truck smashed my automobile. Then, my house in Elmhurst burned down on March 8. While it was being rebuilt, a scaffold fell on me, and later I was laid up when a septic tank rigging knocked me down. That was on June 14, and I was disabled until October."

"Tough luck, is right," Judge Schwab commented. "But that isn't all. My wife fell on the ice two weeks ago and fractured a vertebra," Jerome said.

The judge ordered the case reinstated on his calendar. The suit was filed by Salvador Parrilli, 30 of Elmwood Park, a news vendor, who broke his hip in a fall in a bathhouse Sept. 16, 1946. The defendant is the St. Louis Bathhouse Corp., Chicago.

Report Schwartz Is To Be Director Of Conservation

Chicago, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Leonard Schwartz, Edwardsville druggist, tonight was reported to be governor-elect Adlai Stevenson's choice for director of conservation in the new Democratic administration.

A Stevenson spokesman here declined to confirm or deny the report for Republican. Stevenson is expected to announce the appointment Sunday.

Schwartz is a past president of the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's clubs. With 50,000 members, this is the largest conservation group in the state.

Besides heading the federation in 1944 and 1945, Schwartz also has served as its secretary, treasurer and vice president. He is the author of numerous articles for conservation publications.

St. Louis, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Howard C. Westbrook, assistant traffic manager in Chicago for the Missouri Pacific railroad, was struck and seriously injured late last night by an automobile that failed to stop.

Westbrook's injuries were listed by attendants at St. Luke's hospital as a possible skull fracture and internal injuries.

Truman Fixes Economic Goal

INVESTIGATE DEATHS OF 2 METAL WORKERS

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Two investigations were under way today in the deaths of two employees of the Federated Metals Co., and the illness of eight others.

C. D. Gross, plant manager, said the 10 were overcome Wednesday night by a gas coming from drums of material shipped to the plant, a division of the American Smelting and Refining Co.

One investigation is being conducted by plant officials and the other by Richard H. Callahan, Lake county deputy coroner.

Mayor Gets Police Report Of Chicago Housing Shortage

Chicago, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Mayor Martin H. Kennelly ordered his police department to find out if Chicago's housing shortage really is bad.

Today he got his answer. It is. The mayor thought possibly vacant dwelling units which for some reason or other were not being offered by their owners for rent, might be adding to the city's plight.

But Police Commissioner John C. Prendergast reported only 498 vacant dwelling units in the city. And not all there are habitable.

These reasons were given for the vacancies: Damaged by fire; condemned by city departments; undergoing remodeling; owner refuses to rent because of the rent ceiling; dwelling for sale but not for rent.

Cease-Fire Order Designed To End War In Palestine

Tel Aviv, Israel, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Fighting sputtered in Southern Palestine tonight despite an Israeli-Egyptian cease-fire order designed to lead to a permanent armistice.

Israeli forces completed what the Jews said was probably the "greatest battle of movement" in the Holy Land history before the deadline was reached at 2 p.m. (6 a.m. CST). It was an operation which saw Israeli troops stab as deep as 48 miles into Egyptian territory. The Israeli chief of operations, Col. Yigal Yadin, estimated that the Egyptians in more than two weeks of fighting suffered 2,500 casualties, of whom 700 were killed and 700 captured.

In sweeping operations against the Egyptians in the Negev Desert, Israeli forces secretly repaired the old Roman road leading southwest from Beersheba and suddenly drove against the Egyptians, Yadin said. The Egyptians, he added, "ran like hell."

"But it was a hard fight," Yadin said. "The cost to us also was considerable."

35,000 Mile Trip Ends As Freedom Train Comes Home

Philadelphia, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Freedom train, America's history on wheels, returns tomorrow to the place of its beginning in the final chapter of a 16-month cross-country pilgrimage through 35,000 miles of the United States.

The great red, white and blue train, with its priceless cargo of documents shares top billing with the gala numbers parade which was postponed on New Year's Day after bad weather threatened.

Parade and freedom train officials say they have worked out a schedule to avoid any conflict of the two events.

Impressive ceremonies will highlight the city's welcome to the returning train which began its tour here Sept. 17, 1947.

A formal dedication service will start at 9 a.m. (central standard time) tomorrow when disabled war veterans, escorted by color guards, bands and drum corps, march from city hall to the train platform.

Shortly after the freedom train ceremonies are completed, the gayly garbed Jimmies will strut their string bands up Broad street, past the reviewing stand at City Hall.

Investigate Report Of Fallen Plane

Chicago, Jan. 7.—(AP)—A report by passengers on an American Airlines plane that they saw another twin-engine plane fall into Lake Michigan was being investigated tonight by the Coast Guard.

Million More Jobs, Enlarge Production

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—President Truman today set a goal of 1,000,000 more jobs and expanded production as he unfolded the economic chart he wants the nation to follow in 1949.

The future can not be left to chance, he said in his annual economic report to Congress, because "dangerous inflationary pressures" still are at work. Accordingly he again asked for the $4,000,000,000 tax boost and anti-inflationary powers he outlined in his state of the Union message Wednesday.

In this connection, he urged a two-year extension of rent controls, and elaborated on his request for powers to control prices and wages on a selective basis. He said these powers may never be used, but should be provided.

Repeal Margarine Tax
Among other things, he called for repeal of the federal excise taxes on margarine.

Reiterating that corporations should bear the major load of the $4,000,000,000 tax increase, he said nevertheless the levies should be applied so as not to hamper business expansion.

His report contained the official tally of the past year's economic achievements highlighted by gains in nearly all fields of industry which boosted the nation's output of goods and services to a record peak of $252,700,000,000.

To maintain this prosperity drive at more balanced levels, the president called on congress to launch a "vigorous anti-inflation program now."

He said that the social program he outlined Wednesday is a two-edged government weapon—"anti-depression" as well as anti-inflation.

Demos Speed Ahead
Democratic leaders immediately promised a quick drive to carry out the president's economic program, but a senate Republican chief sounded a go-slow note.

Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass.), deputy GOP floor leader, told a reporter: "The conclusions and recommendations of the president are so extensive they require a lot of study. Only after very careful consideration by every member of congress can we be sure of a course that will bring us to the best solution."

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said the president's message was "constructive and positive" and should calm "the fears of a few critics who pretended to see a drift toward socialism" in Mr. Truman's address to congress on Wednesday.

O'Mahoney heads the joint senate-house economic committee, which will weigh the president's report for legislative action.

Skirts Size Of Budget
In today's message, Mr. Truman skirted direct reference to the size of his new budget, which some Democrats say will call for about $41,900,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Much of the president's economic report went over the same ground covered in his "State of the Union" address, but this time he bore down far harder on economic factors.

In general, he found that the nation is enjoying a period of "bountiful prosperity." He noted that the long rise in prices has been "halted or reversed" in wider areas of the national economy, and he said this marks the beginning of a "process" by which more stable condition can be reached.

Awarded $85,000 In Damage Case

Chicago, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Stanley Zych, 35, an apprentice watchmaker, was awarded $85,000 by a superior court jury today for injuries suffered when his legs were run over by a beer truck.

Zych sued the Schoenhofen Edelweiss company, Chicago, and Chester Brewer, 35, one of the company's drivers.

He testified that he spent 16 months in Hines VA hospital after both legs were fractured by the truck July 25, 1946. Zych said he was wounded in France during the war and was hospitalized in England for 10 months.

U. S. AND BRITAIN AGAIN TAKE
OPPOSITE SIDES ON INDONESIA

One sad aspect of the Indonesian trouble is that everybody likes the Dutch. The democratic countries, at any rate, have long admired their courage, sturdiness, liberality and other excellent qualities. The spirit with which they withstood the Nazi occupation only increased that admiration.

But it seems that, like the English, the Dutch appear to least advantage in the role of colonial rulers. And the fact remains that, however much we like them, their government has broken a promise to the UN that it would not resort to force again without the Security Council's permission.

Further, it has arrogated to itself some dictatorial rights in Indonesia which it holds only through power, and which are out of key with modern thinking. This is not to say that the Dutch government has not had cause for impatience and even anger with the Indonesian Republic. But it has not moral right to resort to force of arms or to defy the world organization of which it is a valued member.

So the Netherlands has been justly rebuked before the United Nations. The United States led the way by submitting the resolution calling for an end to hostilities, and by imposing limited sanctions through stoppage of Marshall Plan payments to the Netherlands East Indies.

That was a proper, if unpleasant, procedure. This country is a tower of strength to the UN and to the world. There is not too much that the UN can do to enforce a truce in Indonesia and settle the political differences there. The history of Palestine's partition shows that only too well. But at least the UN can be consistent, which it was not in the partition case.

Our own government was chiefly responsible for the earlier inconsistency. It may be hoped that there will be no repetition. It seems clear that in the Palestine approach Washington suddenly substituted British policy for its own. Now, in the Indonesian matter, Britain and the United States at the outset are once more on opposite sides of the fence.

There are practical and nationalistic reasons why the British government supports the Dutch position. The British Empire is giving way to the British Commonwealth, but the Crown still has many colonial possessions. Britain might well wish to see the independence movement in the Far East stopped, or at least slowed down.

But that is Britain's concern, not America's. There is no reason why America should follow British policy. The Indonesian fighting raises many complex questions for world governments, singly and collectively. It could have profound effects on such things as the Western Union, the Marshall Plan, and communism in the Far East, so it must have highest consideration.

The United States has a number of courses open to it, just as it had in the matter of Palestine partition. This time, perhaps, it will base its choice more on moral than political grounds. America is surely strong enough to dare to put peace and justice first. A solution argued on moral grounds might come as a shock to some power politicians and ultra-nationalists. But it could scarcely fail to impress world thought and strengthen the United Nations in this latest crisis of decision.

Tigers, Rockets Win, Crimson Lose To Beardstown

Wilsonmen Take PMBC Loop Win From Chapin By 58 To 41 Margin

Spike Wilson's ISD quintet grabbed a 58 to 41 PMBC loop win from Chapin here last night.

Paul Blakeman's cagers took the lead in the initial canto, holding an 11-10 advantage going into the second frame. However, Cecil Hood and Carlstedt began setting a terrific pace for the local five and pushed the Tigers into a 30 to 18 advantage at the intermission.

Bonds, Taylor Rally For Chapin

Jimmy Bonds and D. Taylor came out strong for the invading crew after the half time rest, and nearly succeeded in tying the count midway through the third quarter. Leo Cecil left the contest in this frame on personal fouls, but Irvin Carlstedt kept up the fight for the Wilsonmen and staved off the Chapin rally.

The Westenders coasted to a win in the last quarter, using their pivot plays and shooting set-ups to take the contest by a comfortable 58 to 41 margin. Irvin Carlstedt fouled out of the fray with four minutes remaining, but not before he had accumulated 15 tallies to lead the local scoring parade.

Chapin Cager Injured

Paul Blakeman saw two of his cagers leave the contest early on fouls as D. Taylor and Staake took a shower in the third and fourth quarters. Another Chapin hooper, Bob Ommen suffered a severe cut over his eye in the second quarter when he collided with Billy Yates, ISD guard. The youth was taken to the school infirmary, where Dr. George Drennan was called to place three stitches in the wound.

The preliminary melee was also won by the Tiger Reserves, as they took the toll of the Chapin seconds by a 42 to 24 margin.

Blueboys Play Host To Quincy Quintet Tonight

Al Miller's Blueboys five will try to even up their week's efforts on the hardwood at 1-1 tonight as they entertain the off-played Quincy quintet on the ISD boards.

The hilltoppers lost one game this week dropping a 76 to 59 contest to the strong Wesleyan aggregation.

Bob Grove, who has had trouble with foot infection the past week, will definitely be O. K. for tonight's fray. The regular guard played in the 7 fielders for his evening's efforts.

The remainder of the line-up will stand pat also, with Bill Gross and Don Longer at the forwards, Bob Murrin at center, and Bill Shouse teaming with Grove at the guards.

The Western Illinois gang has whipped the local quintet once this season, but the Blueboys retaliated when they bumped off the Raiders in the finals of the Illinois College Christmas holiday tourney. Tonight's go will be the rubber game for the two crews.

Ray DeGreef, Quincy mentor, will probably start Don Bickhaus and El Tappe at forwards, Dick Hietohat at the pivot, with Mel Tappe and Dick Gudermuth playing in the defensive spots. This is the same line-up that met the Blueboys in their two previous encounters.

The main event is scheduled to begin at 8 p. m. on the ISD pine.

Paul Stroud's Routt Rockets gave further notice that they are going to be tough nuts to crack on the hardwood the rest of the winter as they swamped a smaller Franklin quintet 72 to 33 on the Franklin floor last night.

Paul Saner, big Routt pivot man finally hit his stride in the fray, garnering 23 counters for his evening's efforts. The Routt center, tallied most of his points on rebound shots, while he was controlling the leather off both boards.

Vernon Tighe, regular starter on the local quint, was unable to play in the contest because of illness. However, Rocket apbs filled the gap left by the regular adequately, and the east sliders had little trouble in gleaming their victory.

Chambersburg Wins Virginia Tournament

Chambersburg was crowned champion of the Virginia tourney last night after they topped the host school 44-40 in a thrilling battle for the championship.

Virginia went into the lead by a 8 to 7 margin after a nip and tuck first quarter. Chambersburg came back in the second canto and held a 20-17 advantage at the intermission.

Still battling it out on even terms in the third period, the two clubs fought tooth and nail right down to the final gun. The champions held a 32-30 edge going into the last canto, but Virginia came back early in the fourth quarter to tie the count.

Lead Changes Hands

The lead changed hands four times in this last frame, and the Reeves, f. was knotted with only seconds remaining. Jackson, who led 6 Chambersburg scoring, flipped in the winning tallies to give the little river town the nod at the horn.

Both teams hit 15 tries from the field, but the winners' advantage was at the free throw line, where Blair, f. garnered 14 of the gift tosses.

GRAINS SLUMP AFTER TRUMAN'S ECONOMIC MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Chicago, Jan. 7.—(P)—With wheat and soybeans in the lead, grains slumped on the Board of Trade today following President Truman's annual economic message to Congress.

Losses in corn and oats were smaller than in wheat. The government raised its buying price for corn today. Bookings of cash grain from the country expanded to 185,000 bushels.

Receipts were: wheat 2 cars, corn 128, oats 45, soybeans 9.

Wheat closed 14-24 lower, May $2.25-23 1/2; corn was 3-14 lower, May $1.48-1.48 1/2; oats were 1-1 lower, May 77 1/2-78; soybeans were 4-5 lower, March $2.55, and soybeans were 20 to 27 cents a hundred pounds lower, January $15.92-15.85.

Story Of Illinois Grains, New Drugs Heard At Rotary

"The Relation of Corn and Soybeans to Public Health" was the subject of a talk given by W. B. Allen, manager of the Development Division of the Staley Co. in Decatur, during the regular Rotary meeting Friday noon.

Two of the most effective disease killers, penicillin and streptomycin have been made available to the public in greater quantities and at a much lower cost through the development of better nutrients on which the mold grows.

It was found that corn steep liquor was ideal for penicillin and at the present time Illinois supplies 99% of all the nutrient materials for this drug in the world.

Corn steep liquor was tried in the production of streptomycin, but the end product also included a heart depressant and could not be used. Staley research men found a method to use soybean meal as the nutrient for this new drug which is proving very effective in combatting types of tuberculosis.

The speaker told of several new products being produced from corn and soybeans and pointed out that the contribution of these crops to our health and welfare is much greater than is generally known by the average person.

Dr. C. P. McClelland introduced Mr. Allen.

Works Of Hayter To Be Shown Here In College Library

In the basement of the Henry Pfeiffer Library at MacMurray college is the newly-arrived exhibition of engravings and drawings by Stanley William Hayter, well-known artist.

Hayter, who was born and educated in England, is the founder of "Atelier 17" or "Studio 17," which he established in Paris in 1928 for the purpose of experimenting with various printing methods.

Many renowned artists, including Picasso, Chagall and Miro, among others, have made prints at "Atelier 17," benefiting greatly from Hayter's knowledge of printing mediums. This experimental "workshop" is a modern counterpart of the early artists' guilds.

Though Hayter's prints are done in a modern idiom, they hold a great deal of appeal even for those who do not care for modern art. The richness of black and white and the various and unusual techniques employed by the artist are of extreme interest. Many of the engravings are color prints. Also included are some working drawings showing the first step in the artist's development of a print.

Hayter's prints are included in all important museums. He is also well known as a lecturer, teacher and art writer. Another field in which the artist has scored achievement is chemistry. Testifying to this is the fact that he has read papers before the Royal Chemical society.

His exhibit will be shown here from Jan. 6 through Jan. 20.

Winchester To Vote On Water Crisis Jan. 25

Winchester—The people of Winchester will go to the polls on Tuesday, Jan. 25, to vote on a bond issue to finance improvements in the city water supply.

Throughout the past year city officials have recognized the increasingly critical situation of city water. During recent years, consumption has increased appreciably while the supply has steadily diminished. The present system of wells now barely supplies the demand and the future looks serious unless action is taken at once, city officials and engineers say.

After an analysis of the situation by an engineering firm from Springfield, in conjunction with the State Geological Survey, the conclusion is that the city must seek another source of supply for water. The best source available is about a half mile from the present wells. Here test wells were drilled and the result provided conclusive evidence that wells sunk in that location would give a sufficient supply for now and years to come. The estimated cost of the project is $60,000 and if it is to be carried through, bonds in that amount must be voted at this special election. The bonds are to be spread over a period of 15 years.

Hand-Made Scene, "The Last Supper," On Display Here

On display at the Illinois Power company is a group of hand-carved figurines representing Christ and the Twelve Apostles at The Last Supper.

The figurines, carved of walnut and mahogany, are the property of Mrs. G. C. Caldwell of Franklin. They were presented to her by The Great Berosini, famous aerialist.

The Great Berosini, whose real name is Ludwig Beroušek, carved and painted the figurines while he was recovering from injuries sustained when he fell from a high wire during a performance in Buffalo, N. Y., on April 14, 1943.

The accident occurred when the artist was doing his famous "drunk" act, in which he staggers and stumbles around on a high wire imitating an inebriated person, complete with top hat and tails.

In the midst of his staggering and stumbling, he staged a fall, catching on to the wires with leather straps concealed beneath his coat tails. The straps became tangled and Berosini was dangling helplessly from the wire. The audience, thinking the stunt part of the act, laughed uproariously. Their laughter quickly changed to gasps of horror, however, when Berosini dangled 75 feet to the ground below.

During his four-year recovery period, Berosini worked tediously on the 13 figurines, completing each, down to the minutest detail, all by hand.

The group is seated around a long table, set with various dishes and goblets, all made by Berosini. The setting rests on a large piece of wood, made to resemble a stone floor.

The public is invited to view this display, which can be seen in the window of the Illinois Power company.

Norwegians Question Acheson On Alliance

Will Weigh USSR, West Proposals

Washington, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Norway's foreign minister submitted personally to Secretary Acheson today questions his country wants answered before deciding whether to join in the North Atlantic security alliance.

Russia has brought pressure on Norway to stay out of the alliance.

Foreign Minister Helvard Lange of Norway talked with Acheson for 32 minutes at the state department. He told reporters afterward that he regards today's brief session as a preliminary to more intensive discussions later in the week. State department officials immediately threw a news blackout around the conversation.

Disputes Russian Report

In talking to reporters, however, the Norwegian diplomat took occasion to dispute Russia's assertion that Norway had failed to give a clear answer to a Soviet question about the possibility of foreign bases on Norway's soil.

Russia had raised the question whether western powers, under the Atlantic pact, might not establish bases on Norway's territory.

Norway replied on Feb. 1 that she would never grant bases to foreign powers unless attacked or threatened with attack.

Russia termed this assurance unsatisfactory because "hastily concocted stories about a threat of attack would suffice to make Norway open her doors to foreign troops and grant bases."

Lange said today: "To my mind it was a clear answer. I don't want at this moment to make any further comment."

Will Get Answers

The purpose of the next discussions, he said, will be to get the answers Norway's cabinet and parliament need before deciding on the next move to protect Norwegian border against possible aggression.

Lange said, in reply to questions, that Acheson did not invite Norway at today's meeting to participate in the security negotiations the United States is now conducting with Canada and five western European countries.

"I have come to gather information with a view to having the material we need to submit to the Norwegian government and parliament the question of whether or not Norway ought to accept an invitation to join the preparatory talks for the Atlantic pact," Lange said.

Acheson and Lange posed for photographers at a desk in a corner of the state department waiting room.

Sees Humor In Photography
Norwegian Ambassador Morgenstern pointed to several state department bulletins on the desk and said jokingly:

"Ha, the people will think that you are signing a pact."

Acheson grinned and replied: "Oh, no."

Lange arrived from Oslo yesterday.

As he left, Moscow warned the Norwegians in effect against joining the American-sponsored alliance which it condemned as "aggressive."

Instead, the Russians proposed in a formal note that Norway sign a non-aggression pact with Moscow.

Lange's call at the state department marked a broadening of the talks about the Atlantic pact. Until now, all discussions have been confined to representatives of Britain, Canada, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and the United States.

Clears Way For Norway
The state department cleared the way for Lange's visit by turning aside requests from the Danish and Swedish envoys, made four days ago, to see Acheson too during the day.

Both ambassadors, recently returned from their home capitals, wanted to discuss their defense problems with the secretary.

The reason given officially was that Acheson was too busy with previously scheduled duties. But some foreign diplomats interpreted the action as a sign the American government at the moment is more interested in talking to countries that show interest in lining up with us in a defense alliance.

Sweden wants to remain neutral, while Denmark has indicated uncertainty about her plans.

Press Officer Michael McDermott told a news conference "he had no idea" when the Swedish and Danish envoys would be able to meet with Acheson. An appointment for this week was regarded as likely, however, by key government officials.

Pacific Northwest Hit By Snow, Winds, Cold

Storm winds and new snow swiped viciously at the northwest Monday and charged into the plains disaster zone.

And another tempest gathered over the north Pacific ocean for an assault on the buffeted west coast.

Highway movement stopped in many areas. Trains were held up. Schools closed. Ski parties were trapped in mountain resorts. And additional families and herds faced isolation as transportation routes were blocked by ground blizzard drifts.

Hard hit were large areas of Oregon, California, Utah, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming. The high winds threatened to reblock many roads opened by 4,000 Fifth army workers in the Nebraska and South Dakota disaster area.

Temperatures skidded quickly below zero in Montana as the winds whipped up blinding curtains of snow there.

In Utah, a federal range official said the multi-million dollar livestock industry faces disaster. There, virtually every main highway was closed after a month-long fight to re-open them since winter's first heavy snows.

"Unless we get a break in the weather, the Utah livestock industry is in danger of being wiped out," said Chester P. Seeley, range management chief of the bureau of land management.

This statement contrasted with a report made to President Truman in Washington Monday by Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, federal works administrator. Fleming said that original fears of sheep and cattle losses were "greatly exaggerated."

He said losses at present amount to about three or four per cent of range animals, but that the figure may go higher. Some early loss estimates were as high as 50 per cent.

Two major rail lines cut off service on storm area routes. All Union Pacific trains headed north and west were flagged down at Denver. At Chicago, the Chicago and North-western line stopped west coast train departures.

The storm made air lines shift routes but did not stop planes.

In Idaho, all main highways were clogged or opened only periodically behind snow plows as wind whipped up to one foot of new snow into drifts. U. S. highway 30, main east-west artery through southern Idaho was blocked at a half dozen places east of Boise. All north-south roads were barred to traffic. Schools in Pocatello and many rural areas were closed.

Urges Protestants To Finance School To Teach Religion

Columbus, O., Feb. 7.—(AP)—An official of the International Council of Religious Education today urged Protestants privately to finance a program of education in religion.

Dr. Erwin L. Shaver, director of week-day religious education for the international council, which represents 40 Protestant denominations, called on public school officials to recognize such a program as part of a child's general education.

In a speech to a section of the council's 27th annual meeting, Dr. Shaver saw "dangerous trends" in recent court decisions separating religion from public education.

"They are dangerous both for America as a democratic country and for the place of religion in our national life," he said.

"One point in present Protestant thinking is clearly evident: Religion in education is increasingly recognized as needed and wanted by the average Protestant citizen and by leaders of Protestant thought."

National Guerrilla Leader Makes Bid For China Peace

Shanghai, Tuesday, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A wartime Nationalist guerrilla leader has crossed Chinese Communist lines north of Nanking to talk peace with the Reds, the north China Daily News reported today.

The British-owned newspaper said Gen. Li Ming-Yang saw Acting President Li Tsung-Jen in Nanking Jan. 29—Chinese New Year's Day—before crossing the Yangtze and arriving north.

The guerrilla leader is a personal friend of both Li and Red Gen. Chen Yi, whose victorious armies are reported regrouping just north of the Yangtze.

The Daily News, quoting "competent authorities" reported Li Ming-Yang now is conferring with Chen Yi at Huaiyung, on the Grand Canal about 200 miles northwest of Shanghai. Li and Chen were comrades-in-arms against the Japanese during the war in northern Kiangsu province.

Woods Sees Rent Hikes When Control Expires

Washington, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The government's housing expediter told congress today that unless rent controls are extended millions of Americans will have to pay 50 to 60 per cent higher rent.

Testifying before the House banking committee, Federal Expediter Tighe E. Woods urged approval of the administration's bill to stiffen and extend rent control through March 31, 1951.

Unless congress acts, the present rent-control act expires next March 31.

But Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.), house-ranking GOP member of the housing group, observed this week end that lower prices and higher unemployment may eliminate any need for rent controls or "anti-inflation" measures.

Wolcott proposed a six-month "as is" extension of rent ceilings while congress watches economic trends.

Woods disagreed. He quoted President Truman's views on the rent situation as follows:

"Even if the most optimistic interpretation is placed upon the slight reduction in the cost of living in recent months, it would be unwise to lift living costs again by rent increases even larger than the moderate ones taking place under the present system of control."

Woods said a "growing black market" in rents has developed largely since July 1, 1947, when the government lost its authority to sue for forcible damages, to apply criminal sanctions and to regulate evictions. Before then, the government could sue a landlord for three times the amount of an overcharge in rent.

The administration's bill would authorize the government to recon-trol areas which have been decontrolled. It would also extend rent ceilings to several types of dwellings not now covered.

Woods told the committee that the end of rent controls now would "force millions to increase their rent payments at the expense of diets, medical care, clothing and other necessities of life."

DOCTOR DIES

Dr. Rost moved to Minier 41 years ago after obtaining his medical degree at the University of Chicago. Services will be held Wednesday at Minier.

Catholic World Raises Protests To Cardinal Trial

By The Associated Press

The Catholic world outside the iron curtain raised despairing protest yesterday (Monday) against the treason trial of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty in Communist Hungary.

Some members of the protestant clergy have joined in the crescendo of indignation aroused by trial of Hungary's Roman Catholic primate.

In New York Rabbi Benjamin Schultz, executive director of the American Jewish league against communism, urged formation of an interreligious movement in the Cardinal's behalf "before it is too late."

There was talk of making the trial an issue before the United Nations.

In Moscow the Communist party newspaper Pravda said "the imperialist press had prepared for Cardinal Mindszenty a 'martyr's crown of thorns.'"

Government-controlled newspapers in Budapest continued their attacks on the cardinal as the court deliberated his fate. He was portrayed as an "agent of international imperialism."

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told a deputation from parliament that Hungary's handling of the case "is utterly repugnant."

AFL Hits Canadian Unions For Having Commie Members

Miami, Fla., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor's executive council reportedly is drafting a statement blasting the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress for harboring communists or communist-sympathizers in Canadian unions.

AFL President William Green told reporters a three-man council committee is preparing a statement for approval at tomorrow's council session. He said it will outline recommendations for eliminating pro-Soviet men from the Canadian T.L.C.

The council is nearing an end of its winter meeting and probably will adjourn tomorrow.

Possible reorganization of the International Association of Machinists with the AFL was discussed for a second day today but no action taken. The IAM withdrew from the AFL three years ago.

In another action today the council agreed to support the Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders International union in a drive to organize such workers in the Miami area. This is a counter campaign to one by the CIO.

U.S. High Court Upholds Contempt Case In Texas

Washington, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The Supreme Court split wide open today in upholding, 5 to 4, a Texas judge who sent a lawyer representing a Negro client to jail for contempt after a bitter court room row.

The lawyer, Joe J. Fisher, told the Supreme Court the fact his client was a Negro and the judge's son was on the other side of the case, may have something to do with the judge's attitude. But the majority found nothing to warrant upholding the verdict.

Here was the case: District Judge F. P. Adams of Jasper County, Tex., objected to Fisher's line of argument in a workmen's compensation case. He warned the lawyer he'd be fined "if you mess with me two minutes and a half."

Fisher took exception to this and Judge Adams fined him $25. As his exchange continued, the judge raised the penalty three times. The final figure: $100 fine and three days in jail.

This was upheld by the Texas Supreme Court and the majority here agreed. It saw nothing to indicate any disregard of Fisher's rights.

Medina Denies Use Of Secret Court Papers By Reds

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—A Federal jury today barred defense use of confidential government court papers in the trial of 11 high American communists.

Admission of the papers, Judge Harold R. Medina ruled, would reveal "all details of the administration of justice to those who, perhaps, may misuse them in some way."

The documents are working papers and other memoranda of the administrative office of the U.S. courts.

Defense counsel had subpoenaed the papers as part of their attack on the jury-picking system in the New York federal district. This method, they contend, discriminates in favor of the rich and against the poor and members of minority groups.

Find Hit And Run Victim In Ditch

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The battered body of a 12-year-old boy—the apparent victim of an automobile—was found in a ditch just east of here tonight.

Coroner Don Wilkoff said the boy, Dale Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott of Urbana, had been dead about an hour at the time he was found.

Wilkoff said the only clue to the boy's death was an automobile hump found in the highway which runs alongside the ditch.

Mindszenty Prays Alone In Cell As He Awaits Verdict Of Court

Budapest, Hungary, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, sustained by his religious faith, prayed alone in his prison cell tonight as the hour of his judgment of treason charges drew near.

Verdicts against the cardinal and six co-defendants will be announced by the peoples court of communist-dominated Hungary at 9 a.m. (2 a.m. CST). The thin Roman Catholic primate and the others face possible death by hanging.

While the court deliberated, Hungary's government-controlled newspapers hammered away at Cardinal Mindszenty—the man who had asked in his final plea that the love of his church be extended to the state he is accused of betraying.

(Separated by oceans and national boundaries the peoples of many countries outside the Soviet sphere prayed with the cardinal. Protests against the trial mounted in the Catholic world. Many Protestants and Jews joined in these expressions of indignation.)

The Hungarian government rejected Britain's protest over the refusal of Hungarian authorities to allow British observers to attend the trial. There were no official United States observers at the trial either.

The Hungarian reply to London said: "Representatives of English newspaper organizations, British subjects, took part in the trial and voiced skepticism about the whole proceedings. Catholic churches in Budapest and its suburbs were jammed yesterday. Lines formed outside many of them as people waited to attend services. There were no special sermons for the cardinal."

A group of important and fervent Catholics told this reporter they were simply unwilling to acknowledge that Cardinal Mindszenty was anything other than a very strong defender of his faith.

They said they felt there must have been some sort of trick, and declared they did not believe the "confessions" uttered by the cardinal in court.

The cardinal celebrated what Hungarians call "a silent mass" in his cell yesterday. A government official said he asked for and received permission to perform the mass. No details were given. There was no indication whether an altar was set up.

The verdict in the cardinal's case will come 44 days after he was jailed. Besides treason he and the others are accused of spying and black market money dealings.

Cardinal Mindszenty was arrested after he had engaged in a long and bitter battle with the government over state seizure of Catholic schools and other issues.

States Fractional Coinage Plan Will Save Five Billion

Chicago, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Edward W. Mehren, head of a movement which favors the minting of 2c and 7c coins, said today "at least 12 congressmen approve" the fractional coinage plan.

Mehren of Beverly Hills, Cal., told a news conference that the American Institute for Intermediate Coinage will seek to introduce two bills in congress this month for revision of the coinage system. He did not give the names of congressmen he said approved the new coinage plan.

Mehren claims fractional coinage can save the public "as a minimum, $5,000,000,000 a year."

"In inflationary periods our present limited small coinage system costs the American people billions of dollars annually. When a nickel product can no longer sell for a reasonable profit at a nickel, the price all too frequently jumps to the next convenient coin—a dime," he said.

"If we had intermediary coins at 2c and 7c," he added, "it would slow down the inflationary spiral."

Claybaugh To Try To Repeal Illinois Tax On Utilities

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 7.—(AP)—State representative Charles Claybaugh (R-Champaign) said today he plans to introduce a bill to repeal the state utility tax and empower cities to tax utilities.

Under the bill, utilities would not be taxed for business done outside city limits. Claybaugh told newsmen. Cities would be allowed to tax utilities 3 per cent of their gross revenues on business done within the cities.

The measure would answer objections of the State Revenue commission to another utility bill now pending. Claybaugh said. The other bill would permit cities to tax utilities on revenue derived in the cities with the state to tax the remainder, he added.

Claybaugh declared he had checked with the Illinois budgetary commission and learned the present 3 per cent tax on utilities yields the state $13,000,000 annually and that 85 per cent of it comes from taxes on utility business in cities.

There would be some revenue loss under his plan, Claybaugh said, adding "that would be a low enough price for the state to pay for a workable method of aiding cities."

House Gives President Reorganization Power

Washington, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The House voted tonight to give President Truman broad permanent powers to reorganize the approximately 1,800 government agencies as he chooses, subject to congressional veto.

House action was by 356-9 rollcall. The bill now goes to the Senate.

The passage of the first major item in Mr. Truman's legislative program was a victory not only for him but for former President Herbert Hoover. Hoover, head of a commission studying government reorganization, has strongly supported the bill. He said today a $3,000,000,000 saving might result from a thorough overhaul of the government.

Administration leaders fought off a barrage of amendments to the proposal, most of them offered by Republicans, near the end of the day's debate on the measure.

Most of them were designed to give preferred treatment to individual agencies or to revise the reorganization procedure which would be set up.

Hoover, at a news conference, had warned against exempting any agencies. He said "propagandists" are behind such moves and that if they are successful, the entire reorganization effort would be destroyed.

The size of the final vote for the bill pointed up general bipartisan support of its general objectives of economy and efficiency in the huge executive branch of the government.

Under it, Mr. Truman or any succeeding president could send government reorganization plans to congress, and they would become effective unless both Senate and House disapprove them within 60 days.

The bill makes special provisions for the armed forces and six "semi-judicial" agencies. It says that a reorganization plan affecting any one of them must be submitted in a separate package. Sponsors said this provision would provide for a clear-cut vote, uncomplicated by other issues.

As it came from the House expenditures committee, the bill provided for the special treatment for the national defense establishment, Interstate Commerce Commission, Securities and Exchange Commission and the Federal Reserve Board.

Rep. Bailey (D-W. Va.) succeeded in having three other agencies added to this category. They are the National Mediation Board, Railway Retirement Board and Railway Adjustment Board.

Noted Prizefighter Charged With Rape

St. Joseph, Mo., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Vincent Lee Foster, Jr., 22, nationally-known welterweight prizefighter, was charged with forcible rape in a complaint signed here today by a 22-year-old Kansas City woman.

Foster was released under $10,000 bond after arraignment before Magistrate A. M. Olmsted. His preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 23.

A native of Rulo, Neb., Foster gave his address as Chicago. He recently knocked out Tony Pelone in Madison Square Garden at New York, and was scheduled to meet Charles Fusari in the Garden Feb. 18.

Foster denied he attacked the woman.

Says It Would Protect U.S. In Crisis

Washington, Feb. 7.—(AP)—William H. Davis, former chairman of the war labor board, today asked Congress to authorize government seizure of plants when a strike imperils the country's health or safety.

He also said he has never liked the Taft-Hartley Act because it has too much "police power." He advised Congress to "back off now — now that things are cool." But in that connection he urged the senators to quit "arguing about whether it's Taft-Hartley or the Wagner Act," and consider proposals on their merits.

Davis, a New York patent lawyer with long experience in the government, testified before the Senate labor committee as it dragged even further behind its schedule. Thirty witnesses remain to be heard in the next three days and nights on the administration bill, which would scrap the Taft-Hartley act and revise the new deal Wagner act in amended form.

Senators Give It Attention

Davis's proposal on national emergency strikes was given careful attention by the Senators, and stirred up much questioning.

He said the 80-day "national emergency" injunctions of the Taft-Hartley act should be dropped because they hinder settlements and don't end emergencies.

He also said the Truman administration's proposal for a 30-day voluntary cooling-off period, without injunctions, is inadequate because the American people need some "assurance" that the national health and safety can be protected.

So this was what Davis suggested instead, when a labor dispute "really endangers the country."

60-Day Cooling-Off Period
1. A 60-day cooling-off period, as in the Railway labor act. During the first 30 days of this period an emergency board would study the case and make recommendations. Davis said no injunctions are needed to enforce the 60-day waiting period. To try to create a cooling-off period by an injunction, he said, is like "putting more coal on the fire to cool the porridge."

2. Then, if the emergency still exists, the President should "take over the properties, call on every officer and every employee to remain at their jobs, and call on every citizen of the United States who has the necessary skill to serve in that enterprise if necessary."

3. Wages and other conditions should remain the same for perhaps 30 days of government operation. Then, if a settlement is still not reached, the President "should set up a board to assess just compensation for the owner of the property and for the workers."

Used Only In Emergencies
Davis said these provisions should not be used in "trifling" situations. He thinks the Taft-Hartley emergency provision was used too often. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) agreed with him.

He said that in a real emergency, any but a "weak-kneed" President would act to save the country whether he had any legal authority or not. And he said he used to be before emergency situations he was left to the President's power to act.

But Davis now has "reluctantly" changed his position and believes congress ought to "make it perfectly plain" that the President should "act first and report to them later."

Said Davis: "The way it looks to one elderly citizen is like this . . . the American people are not satisfied to have a dispute go on in congress over the President's powers in a national emergency. If a statute is necessary, then for God's sake let's have the statute."

Wouldn't Preserve T-H Act
Under questioning by Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), Davis said he wouldn't "preserve" the Taft-Hartley act—"there's too much for lawyers to get an advantage."

Yes, he said, he would go back to it. He quoted Wagner as having always said: "the act needs changing. Let's change it. I'll accept any amendment that advances collective bargaining."

Davis agreed with Senator Smith (R-N.J.) that there is too much emphasis on whether the Taft-Hartley act is to be "repealed."

"What difference," he asked, "does it make to the country whether the Republicans or the Democrats get an advantage?"

Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the national labor relations board, read a short statement at the start of the morning session. Before any questions were asked, he was dismissed in order to make way for Davis. Denham will come back tomorrow to be questioned.

Anniversary

REV. A. V. HARRIS

The Rev. A. V. Harris, pastor of Mount Emory Baptist church, will celebrate his third anniversary as pastor of the church with special services throughout the week.

The Rev. A. B. Collins, B.Th., D.D. of Rock Island, Ill., vice moderator of the Wood River Association, will deliver the anniversary sermon Sunday, Feb. 13, at 3 p. m.

Since becoming pastor of Mount Emory, Rev. Harris has baptized more than 60 persons for membership in the church. In addition to having increased the church's membership he has been successful in raising approximately $12,000 for the remodeling and the operation of the church. The remodeling has included modernization of the parsonage, installation of a new heating unit, new fixtures in the rest room, painting and waterproofing of the exterior of the church, redecoration of the church's auditorium, and church school room.

Under Rev. Harris' leadership the program of the church has been raised to a high level of spirituality. Playing an important role in Rev. Harris' program has been the faithful cooperation he has received from his wife and two children and the members and friends of Mount Emory.

Lamb Kabobs

Outdoor Eating

All foods are good, of course, but some are just plain fun besides. Meats en brochettes, kabobs or kebabs—whatever you prefer to call them—are a very good example. Adapted from Armenian cooking, these kabobs are also an example of the good food we can borrow from some of our neighbors abroad.

The principle of the kabob is that bite-sized cubes of tender meats are strung on skewers with harmonizing foods, then broiled indoors or over an outdoor fireplace, or strung on picnic forks or sticks and cooked over an open fire. They are as informal as the day is long, and as much fun to eat as they are to cook.

The possibilities for foods that can go en brochette is endless. In fact, each time you make the kabobs they may have a new character. For meats, they are lamb, beef, all ready-to-serve meats, ham, Canadian-style bacon, and the canned luncheon loaves that can be cut into cubes. Some veteran kabob makers like to soak the cubed meat in French dressing for an hour or two before stringing it on the skewers with the other foods. Good foods to accompany the meats might include cubes of pineapple, small whole onions, bacon (twined on the stick, particularly with lamb) small cooked potatoes, tomato quarters, cubes of egg plant, and any other foods with the meats.

Cook Kabobs Slowly
The secret of perfection in cooking the kabobs as well as any other meat is to cook them slowly. In your broiler, this means that they must be 2 to 3 inches from the heat. The grate on your outdoor fireplace undoubtedly holds the meat away from the fire, but in cooking the kabobs over an open campfire it's up to you to keep them tender by cooking them just over the coals, rather than over the direct flame.

Cook until the meat seems cooked through, probably about 6 to 8 minutes on each side. The kabobs may then be eaten directly from the

Charles Weidman
Dance Company
Pleases Crowd

A capacity audience of wide age-range gave evidence of hearty enjoyment of the program of modern dance presented Saturday evening by Charles Weidman and his Theatre Dance Company. The group of nine dancers, stage manager, and pianist exhibited a happy combination of youthful exuberance, technique, and seriousness of artistic purpose to which the audience responded warmly.

The program, thoroughly American in subject and temper and singularly free from the esoteric quality so bewildering to the average concert-goer, was well balanced. Mr. Weidman's choreography for the second and last numbers sparked with the satire for which he is noted, but the third gave ample evidence of his grasp of a serious contemporary problem and his ability to portray it artistically. Featured dancer Helen Peter Hamilton also showed talent as a choreographer in the first and fourth numbers. Stage Manager Jack Ferris proved an effective narrator.

Other dancers who made up the company were Betty Osgood, Betts Leo, Felise Conde, Carl Morris, Sherry Parker, Paula Caputo, and Nick Vanoff. Freda Miller gave dexterous and sympathetic support at the piano.

The program was one of the MacMurray College concert-lecture series.

Lt. Whittaker Tells Of Three Weeks On Raft
Lt. J. C. Whittaker of the U. S. seven companions were forced down in a B-17 in the Pacific, after leaving Honolulu on a special mission. They drifted on rubber rafts for three weeks, going without water for the first eight days until it rained, and without food most of the time. Their only food consisted of two fish which they caught with hooks, and small minnows which they scooped up with their hands. "Every man prayed to God for assistance," he related. "During all those days we faced death I didn't hear a 'thee' or 'thou' in those prayers. They were prayers beamed directly to God—we prayed to him like he was our best friend and neighbor."

Describing the hope of his party when they heard airplane motors in the distance, and the despair when the sound faded away, Lt. Whittaker said the faith of he and his companions was sorely tested. But they continued to pray—even the two fliers who slipped from their rafts quietly and disappeared forever.

"An Unseen Strength"
Lt. Whittaker told of sighting land after the twenty-first day. He credited a Supreme Being with giving him strength to fight his way to an island, although the raft was pushed back several times by cross-tides. During the three weeks on a raft, when the Rickenbacker party was believed to be dead, Lt. Whittaker lost 53 pounds.

"Those experiences put two new words in my vocabulary," he said. They added the words "I Believe" to my life. I came back home with a new conception of God and the importance of religion. It is too bad that some men have to be near death before they become acquainted with God."

Lt. Whittaker was introduced by Rev. Frank Marston of Grace Methodist church. Rev. Lewis N. Raymond, pastor of State Street Presbyterian church, presided. The audience overflowed the auditorium and many were standing.

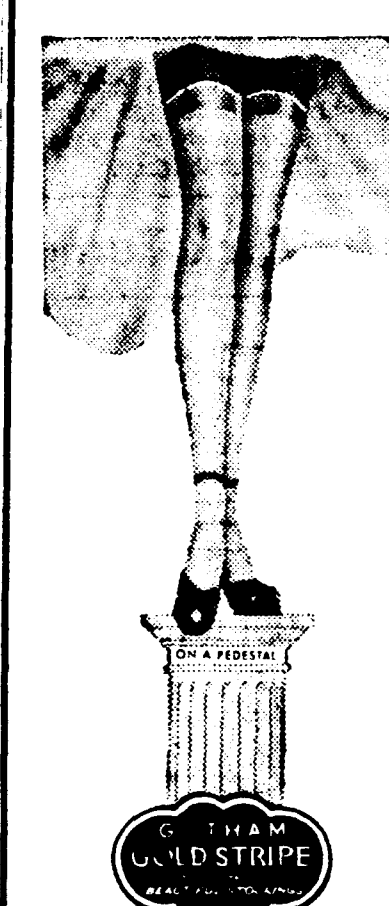

The former Air Corps pilot appeared at the union service as a representative of the Christian Service Organization, which is interested in the spiritual welfare and comfort of men in the military training centers. A free will offering was taken for this cause.

Lt. Whittaker spoke Monday morning at Jacksonville High school.

New York Stock Market

New York, Feb. 7.—(P)—Stocks suffered a late sinking spell today that more than wiped out early gains.
The slump never became as steep as last week's market slide, but declines ranging to as much as four points appeared near the close.

Earlier, rallying tendencies had appeared, based on moderate demand for steel and motors. Although some plus signs persisted, losses dominated the list in the final hour.
It was the busiest full session in a month, with turnover of around 1,300,000 shares.
Rail, oil and chemical shares were among the hardest hit by the day's selling. Several attained new 1948-49 lows, among them New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Texas Co., and Standard Oil (N.J.).
Stocks subject to the wider down-swings included Allied Chemical,
Superior Oil of California, Standard Oil of California, American can and Gulf Oil. U. S. Steel and Youngstown Sheet slipped to the losing side with the others.

General Motors clung to part of its initial upturn. Directors prepared to take dividend action after the market closed.
Disappointing to many market-followers was the failure of the list to draw stimulus from the morning gains registered by the motor and steel shares. Grain futures also were unable to hold to early advances.
Narrowly lower prices continued to prevail in the bond market.

SELLING PRESSURE
WIPES OUT GAIN,
SOYBEAN GAINS

Chicago, Feb. 7.—(P)—Selling pressure against grains, soybeans and lard increased toward the close on the board of trade today. Early gains were wiped out as the market developed an easier tone.
Liquidations started in lard, which tumbled quickly to new lows since trading in present contracts started.
Soybeans followed, also going to new seasonal lows. Weakness in live hog-and cottonseed oil futures in the east caused some of the selling.
Wheat and corn, up more than a cent at one time, fell an equal amount below Saturday's close in the late dealings. A heavy influx of fed cattle into livestock markets would diminish demand for corn feeding on farms, traders said.
Receipts were: wheat 13 cars, corn
305, oats 22 and soybeans 6.
In the closing minutes selling increased and prices fell to new lows for the day. In addition to soybeans and lard, new seasonal lows were made by September wheat and May,
July and December corn.
Wheat closed 18-24 lower, May $2.16 1/2, corn was 2 to 3 cents lower,
May $1.24 1/2, oats were 1-1/2 lower,
May 66 1/2, rye was 1 1/2 to 2 cents lower, May $1.29, soybeans were 4 1/2 to 5 lower, March $2.25-2.25 1/2, and lard was 45 to 65 cents a hundred pounds lower March $12.45.
Loose lard was offered at $11.50, a new low since June, 1942, when the price was $11.42 1/2.

Elgin, Teutopolis And Danville Still Big Three Of Illinois Cagers

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—(P)—Elgin, Teutopolis and Danville were named again today in that order as Illinois high school basketball crown.

The opening of title eliminations is only two weeks away—when the smaller schools take up the chase in district tournaments. Larger schools begin their drive with regional meets the first week in March.

Until some team proves them wrong, sports writers are going all out for Elgin's unbeaten Maroons as the No. 1 championship favorite.

In the Associated Press seventh weekly poll—as in the six previous ones—Elgin was the clear cut choice for the top rating.

Then for the second straight week came Teutopolis and Danville, two outfits owning long strings of conquests. Teutopolis, like Elgin and Sterling township, hasn't been tamed to date.

Mt. Vernon moved up a notch to fourth place in the ratings, taking the spot vacated by Paris which lost to Robinson last week and dropped to the No. 11 berth.

Sterling, the fifth rated contender, and Teutopolis defend their spots Tuesday night against Rock Falls and Effingham, respectively.

For Teutopolis, the game represents a big hurdle in its bid for a perfect regular season slate. The remaining five opponents are small schools which apparently have little chance of pulling an upset.

Effingham showed class last week in winning the eastern Illinois tournament, over such other entries as Paris and Robinson.

The top 15 teams:

1. Elgin (15-0)

2. Teutopolis (21-0)
3. Danville (18-2)
4. Mt. Vernon (19-2)
5. Sterling (16-0)
6. Kankakee (18-2)

12. Oak Park (12-2)
13. Dundee (17-2)

Our Saviour's Five Beats Beardstown In 58 To 15 Fray

Father Morris' Our Saviour's kid cagers had little trouble in annexing a 58 to 15 game victory from the Beardstown Parochial five on the local boards last night.

The locals' mentor played his first team the first quarter, and then allowed his subs to finish the contest after the varsity had piled up a 20 to 0 lead. Eleven Our Saviour's basketballers broke into the scoring column.

The east side reserves swamped the Beardstown seconds 14 to 2 in the preliminary fray.

The Our Saviour's five will tangle with Meredosia in the first game of the Arenzville tournament Wednesday night. Their next home game will pit them against Arenzville next Monday.

Jimmy Conzelman Stricken At N. Y. Writers' Dinner

New York, Feb. 7.—(P)—Jimmy Conzelman, stricken last night at the annual New York baseball writers' dinner, says it's just a stomach disorder and "I'll be okay after a little sleep."

"I think I had a touch of ptomaine poisoning of something," he said shortly afterwards. "I've asked the doctors to give me something to make me sleep. It's nothing serious."

The former head coach of the Chicago Cardinals in the National Football League was reported as "resting comfortably" early today. He was taken ill during the baseball fete and was removed to a private room. The program was interrupted while a call was made for the doctor.

Later Conzelman was reached by telephone in his room and he personally gave out the report on his condition.

He resigned from his football post last month to devote full time to an advertising business in St. Louis.

Purdue Retains 3rd Place Tie; Beats Iowa 54-46

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 7.—(P)—Purdue's Boilermakers clung to a third-place tie in the Big Nine basketball race by defeating Iowa's second-division Hawkeyes tonight, 54 to 46.

Purdue and Ohio State have won five and lost three apiece.

Iowa stayed in a seventh-place tie with Wisconsin, each having only one victory in six conference games.

Free throw accuracy won for Purdue. The Boilermakers were outscored from the field, 17 goals to 15, but hit 24 of 31 free throws. Iowa converted only 12 of 24 shots from the 15-foot line.

The Iowans were even colder on the field goal attempts. It took 86 shots to produce their 17 buckets, while Purdue got its 15 on 59 attempts.

Purdue ran up a 13-4 lead early in the game and needed every point of the margin as Iowa fought back. The Hawks cut Purdue's advantage to 29-24 at the half and whittled it to one-point at 41-40. Purdue led only 47-45 with two and a half minutes to go but pulled away on three throws.

Tony Charley Mason was high scorer of the game with 14 points. Howie Williams tallied 13 for Purdue.

Sues To Set Aside Mother's Bequest To Step-Father

Chicago, Feb. 7.—(P)—Miss Bellette Willma Douglas of San Diego, Calif., filed suit in federal court today seeking to set aside her late mother's $500,000 bequest to her step-father.

Mrs. Rosalie D. Morse, who died last June 26, left the money to her husband, Col. Robert H. Morse, chairman of the board of Fairbanks Morse and Company.

Miss Douglas, daughter of Mrs. Morse by a previous marriage, claimed in the suit that the will was drawn Nov. 24, 1942, in Florida while her mother was in extremely poor health. It said Mrs. Morse believed herself in danger of death and that Col. Morse used undue influence and placed improper restraints upon Mrs. Morse to induce her to draw the will in his favor.

The suit added that Mrs. Morse was mentally ill when the will was drawn.

Eddleman Gets Twenty Points As Illinois Trounces Wildcats

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 7.—(P)—Dike Eddleman, Bill Erickson and Burdette Thurlby combined for 47 points tonight as Illinois crushed Northwestern 85-66 to fortify its Big Nine basketball lead.

Gaining their sixth conference win in seven starts, the Illini were never behind as they spurred into a 14-5 lead after making five of their first six shots.

Eddleman bagged nine of his total 20 points in the first half as Illinois piled up a 39-26 halftime lead. In the first 75 seconds of the second half, Northwestern made its best move to close the gap by scoring seven straight points to cut the margin to 40-33. Jake Sticken, Cotton Hughes and Bill Eddleman each hit a basket in the surge.

But Illinois again opened up and drilled into a 75-50 lead with five minutes to go. At this juncture, Illini reserves took over. Illinois dropped 29 out of 84 shots while Northwestern made good on 25 of 80.

Scoring honors went to the Wildcats' Ray Ragelis with 21 points. 13 of them coming in the second half. Bill Sticken contributed 14. Erickson to 40-33. Jake Sticken, Cotton Hughes and Bill Eddleman each hit a basket in the surge.

The defeat kept Northwestern buried in the cellar with a 1-6 record.

Walker Will Take Over State Dept. Of Mines Today

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—(P)—Prof. Harold L. Walker of the University of Illinois will take over tomorrow as acting director of the state mines and minerals department.

Walker, 43, will be returning to the job he held for six months in 1947. He resigned then to go back to his duties as head of the university's mining and metallurgy department.

Governor Stevenson announced Walker's appointment today. He will serve until a permanent successor is named for James W. Starks of Taylorville, who died last Thursday after holding the director's post less than three weeks.

Walker was acting director from April to October, in 1947. He replaced Robert M. Meidl, who resigned following the Centralia mine disaster.

RED FLIERS GET AROUND

Moscow — (P)—Soviet civil aviation has over 300 pilots who have flown more than 1,000,000 kilometers. Announcing this, "Evening Moscow" said the champion is N.I. Novikov, who is on his fourth million. In December, the newspaper said, he had flown enough to go around the world 80 times.

He said it took him 14 years to fly his first 1,000,000 kilometers. He said he had flown 1,000,000 kilometers in seven years to make his second million. He made his third 1,000,000 in four years.

Feller Signs Pact For $72,500; DiMag May Get Almost $100,000

New York, Feb. 7.—(P)—Bob Feller has signed a one-year contract with the Cleveland Indians for approximately $72,500, but the New York Yankees' Joe DiMaggio probably will top that figure today with a pact for close to $100,000.

Feller already has agreed to terms with Bill Veck, it was learned last night, and the scheduled signing in Cleveland tomorrow will be a mere formality. The Cleveland owner and star right-hander met in Vice-President Hank Greenberg's apartment Saturday night and settled their differences.

Feller's new contract calls for an approximate $10,000 cut from his 1948 salary of $82,500. He will receive the same $40,000 base contract he got last year, but the difference will be in the bonuses resulting from attendance. Feller will start drawing extra salary after the club has drawn 1,250,000 at home. The extra payments will end at 2,500,000.

In other words, should the Indians' home attendance reach two and a half million fans, which is about 100,000 less than last year, Bob will earn $72,500.

Feller, a guest at the annual dinner of the New York baseball writers last night, said he was very happy over his new contract.

"I'm satisfied I deserved to take a cut," he said. "I didn't have a good year. Veck treated me very well. We drew over two and a half million last year, but 25 other fellows on the club had good years and reserve a raise more than I did."

When DiMaggio signs his contract, as expected, he will become the highest paid player in the history of the game. The Yankee Clipper was due to confer with Yankee President Don Topping and General Manager George Weiss today. They already had met twice before but each time Joe walked out without signing.

It was learned from a reliable source that Joe's asking price is a cool $100,000 for the 1949 season. Also he wants it in basic salary, not a bonus arrangement wherein he must gamble on attendance to swell his pay checks.

The Yankees have offered him $60,000 as a basic salary, plus a bonus guaranteed on attendance after it passes the 1,500,000 figure in the stadium. The Yankees figure that this would enable DiMaggio to make approximately $90,000 should the Yankees draw 2,400,000 which was last year's turnstile count.

Ohio State Stays In Race; Defeats Indiana 72-59

Columbus, O., Feb. 7.—(P)—Ohio State stayed in the Big Nine basketball title race tonight by turning back Indiana's Hoosiers with a brilliant last-half drive, 72-59. It was Ohio State's fifth win against three losses in conference play, and Indiana's fourth loss in six starts.

Bob Raidiger, junior center, was the big gun for Ohio State, dropping in 11 field goals and five free throws for 26 points. Gene Meizer, sub forward, who sank five field goals in five tries in the first half, finished the night with 15 points.

A capacity crowd of 5,773 watched the Buckeyes, held to a 36-36 tie at halftime, score their 10th win in 14 games this season. State connected on 29 field goals attempts in 59 attempts, while Indiana could hit only 20 of 83 tries.

Ohio State took an early lead but Indiana caught the Bucks at 18-16 with nine minutes left in the first half and then forged ahead to a 35-29 margin. Ohio State went ahead, 36-35. With two seconds to play Jerry Stuteville tied the count at 36-36 with a free throw.

For Indiana, it guards—Gene Ring and Stuteville—powered the attack. Stuteville with 20 points, Ring with 14.

Dick Schnitter, Ohio's scoring ace, was held to eight points.

Majors Will Play Nearly Third Of Games At Night

New York, Feb. 7.—(P)—The Major Leagues, which laughed when the Minors tried baseball after dark in 1930, will play almost one third of their games at night this season.

Except for a wartime lull the total has mounted steadily ever since Larry MacPhail first turned on major league lights at Cincinnati in 1935.

The American League, which didn't try the arcs until 1936, will play 199 night games. The National League will play 179. Both are records.

Of the 16 clubs, only the Chicago Cubs of the senior circuit don't have nights in their home park. The Cubs get a taste of the late hours, however, with 25 night road games.

The electric bill will be the highest in St. Louis. The Cardinals have 43 night games, most in either league, and the Browns 36. Washington is high in the American with 41 a prop of two from its 1948 high.

Both leagues open on April 18 and the first night games come the same week. Washington has one scheduled for April 22, its second home game and the St. Louis Cardinals have one April 23, also their second home appearance. The seasons close Oct. 2.

Widow, 93, Wins Round In Fight To Control Estate

Chicago, Feb. 7.—(P)—A 93-year-old widow today won a round in her fight to appeal a court order finding her incompetent to handle her $170,000 estate.

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher issued a writ of mandamus compelling Probate Judge William F. Waugh to issue a bond enabling Mrs. Linda B. Knox of Chicago to appeal the incompetency order.

Incompetency proceedings against Mrs. Knox were begun last fall by her cousin, Mrs. Virginia Monsen, 955 Mason Avenue, Joliet. Mrs. Monsen claimed Mrs. Knox was bedridden and unable to manage her wealth.

Judge Waugh Dec. 31 appointed the Chicago Title and Trust Company to act as conservator of Mrs. Knox's estate. In January he refused to set the amount of an appeal bond on the grounds that Mrs. Knox's incompetency made it impossible for her to appeal his ruling.

'Gator Bites Man's Head In Circus Act

Alencon, France, Feb. 7.—(P)—Santos Dumont, a circus performer, stuck his head into the mouth of a 300-pound alligator tonight — his regular act. As usual the audience oohed and aahed.

But this time the 'gator suddenly snapped his big jaws shut.

The actor's father, the Fernex press agency said, rushed to the rescue with an iron bar and forced the big reptile's jaws open.

The younger Dumont suffered deep head wounds, but he is expected to live.

Says Bad Teeth Injures Success

Chicago, Feb. 7.—(P)—The man with bad or missing teeth has a hard time making a go of life. A new Jersey dentist said today.

Not only does the man with defective dental equipment have trouble chewing his food, Dr. Clyde Henry Schuyler of Montclair, N. J., told the Chicago Dental society, but:

1. He is more subject to disease than the man with good teeth;

2. His self respect suffers and he's more subject to neuroses; and

3. He has a tougher time holding a job and achieving social success.

Tigers And Crimson Play At Home Tonight; Rout To Chambersburg

By Bob Merris

The local high school basketball teams swing into their February stretch drive tonight as the Crimson and I.S.D. Tigers entertain visiting prep rivals at home, and Routt's Rockets travel to Chambersburg for another bout with Eldon Abbot's Kraushaar.

Abbot's Kraushaar will see his quintet go into action against the strong Pittsfield Saukies outfit on the DP boards this evening, with the curtain-raiser slated for 6:45 p.m.

Pittsfield is currently one of the top outfits in this sector. The Pike county outfit has trounced the Kraushaars once before this winter. They clipped the Crimson 44 to 22 on the Pittsfield floor early in the season. Last week they lowered the Hannibal quint's colors in a 35 to 31 contest.

Zimmerman Leads Pittsfield Big Rich Zimmerman is the top threat in the Saukies line-up. The lanky pivot man averaged 15 points per game, and is a constant threat under both boards in the rebound department.

The J.H.S. mentor has been shifting his line-up in an attempt to find a combo that will click before Regional tourney time the end of this month. In a statement last night, Kraushaar named Rollyn Trotter, Larry Myer, Dick Gotschall, Gene Todd and Dave Busey as the starting five. Bill Williams and Jack Chapman will also see plenty of action on tonight's main event.

Kraushaar has been well pleased with his team's showing in recent games. Although they lost to the

Identify Rockford Man As 'Money' Muttering Gunman

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 7.—(P)—Police said today that Walter P. Molander, 32 has been identified as the "money, money, money" muttering gunman who robbed a Freeport Loan company of $750 Jan. 29.

Molander, arrested on suspicion, is charged with automobile larceny and carrying concealed weapons.

Police Chief Folke Bengston of Rockford said he also has been identified as the gunman who robbed the Joseph Behr and Sons Salvage company in Rockford of $300 on Jan. 28.

The police chief said Molander used a stolen car which contained two loaded pistols and three sets of 1940 Illinois license plates when he was recovered. Molander denied all the accusations.

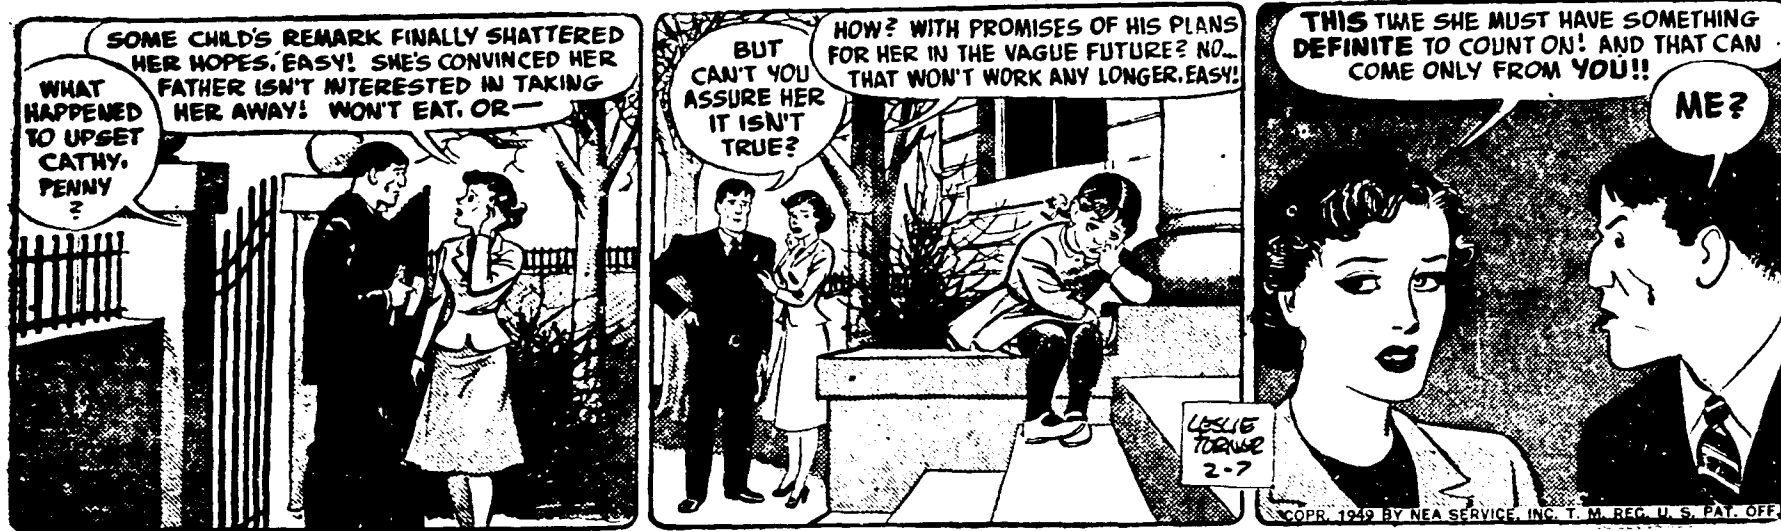

The gunman who robbed the Northern Illinois Corporation Loan office at Freeport muttered "money, money, money" as he went through the cash box.

POP Goes the QUEEN
By Bob Wade and Bill Miller

THE STORY: John Henry and Sin, a convict, are winners of an expensive prize in a swank desert resort. They are visited by an armed man as they dress in their cottage for dinner. The man, Homer Anglin, leaves, after saying he made a mistake. Dining at an exclusive cafe where waiters are in Arab costume, Johnny receives a Queen of Diamonds on which he writes "Your deal." While searching for the waiter who left the card in place of a check, Mr. Barselou, the owner, takes them into the kitchen. The door to the alley opens, there's a blast of a gun and a man stumbles into Johnny's arms. It's Anglin, the man who visited the cottage. Anglin dies muttering to Johnny: "You already got it..."

"DEAD all right," Lieutenant Lay said and got up from beside the body. Barselou, the Conovers, the cooks behind their now-cool stoves and two tan-uniformed policemen waited for him to work a miracle.

The second in command of the Azure police department stood with his bowed legs apart and scowled at the wall. He was a lanky man in his middle thirties with a horse face and arms too long for his body. He needed a shave.

The scowl swung on John Henry. "Mr. Barselou seems to have the idea that you knew him." Conover shook his head and kept silent. Sin still leaned against him, but she wasn't about to be sick any more and her tilted eyes were sharply alive. "Doesn't matter," Lay rasped. "He's not hard to identify. Name's Anglin." He kept watching John Henry.

When the scowl began to fade, the young man thought it was safe to ask, "Who was he?" "Oh, he hung around town a lot. Did lots of jobs. Been lots of different things. Prospected some." He glanced at the sand that had spilled on the immaculate floor from Anglin's clothes. "Was a pocket matches and a wallet. The wallet contained a driver's license made out to Homer Anglin. $19 in currency, a Social Security card and nothing else.

LAY got up and rubbed his knees. Barselou bit his lip and tapped the police officer's shoulder, drawing him to one side.

Sin sighed. "Do you think we can go now?" "Shouldn't be long now," her husband said off-hand. He was trying to read lips across the kitchen.

"Why don't you ask the lieutenant if it's okay? I need some fresh air pretty bad."

Lieutenant Lay came ambling back. "Say, Conover, when you told your story why didn't you tell me that Anglin said something to you before he died?"

"He didn't," Barselou says. "John Henry's temper flared. 'Barselou's got a lot of ideas. Why doesn't he have one about that waiter of his that started us on the whole thing?'"

The police ambulance clanged outside in the alley, its siren dying to a groan. John Henry guessed the expression on Lay's ugly face was supposed to pass as a grin. At least, after the noise had died down, Lay said, "Oh, we all have ideas." And he let the Conovers go.

As they walked down the alley, John Henry said, "Whew!" Sin slid her hand under his arm and agreed. "Was that the adventure you wanted with your dinner?"

"No," he admitted morosely. "I didn't want to see anybody get hurt. It never seems that bad in stories. When people in stories stumble into a murder, they always come up with a clue."

Sin moved closer to him and nodded silently. "Damn!" said John Henry. "What's the trouble, honey?" "Tripped."

He kicked some soft trash aside and they walked on. The soft trash was an Arab bur-noose. Lieutenant Lay didn't find it, either.

Chandlerville Man Sustains Painful Burns At Havana

Chandlerville-Morris "Bud" Lane suffered third degree burns on his right leg and hand Sunday morning at about 4 o'clock while working at the Havana coal docks.

According to a report received here, he was refueling the burners used to thaw the coal in the cars when the flames leaped out and ignited his right trouser leg. Puffs of oil spilled on his trousers evidently coupled with the intense heat to cause the accident.

Fellow workers immediately rolled him in a canvas but were unable to smother the flames before he sustained the painful injury. He was taken to St. John's hospital, Springfield, for treatment.

Jury For Trial Of 15-Year-Old Slayer Selected

Chicago, Feb. 7.—(AP)—A jury of six men and six women was picked today to try tall, slender Rafael "Rocky" Villaseor, 15, for the slaying of his 13-year-old playmate, William Gervais.

Gervais' strangled body was found Nov. 6, crammed in a shallow manhole in Fuller Park, a southside playground area. Villaseor is charged with murder. The trial begins Tuesday in criminal court.

Villaseor has confessed strangling his playmate with a belt and stuffing his body in the manhole after performing an unnatural sex act in a secluded corner of the park.

Villaseor, a dark-skinned youth of Mexican ancestry, was quiet and avoided the gaze of spectators as the jury was being selected.

Assistant state's attorney Richard B. Austin and Alex Napoli did not qualify the jury to deliver the death penalty because of the defendant's age.

Defense attorney Samuel H. Block said he would plead that Villaseor was temporarily insane at the time of the slaying.

State Road Group Asks Higher Fees For Auto Licenses

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—(AP)—A legislative group studying roads today recommended increases averaging about 15 per cent in Illinois automobile license fees.

The proposed new schedule would hike annual license charges for automobiles in the "light car" class from $10.50 to $12.

It was adopted by the Illinois highway and traffic problems commission. The vote was 7 to 6.

This and other recommendations of the commission, which is formulating a long range road program, will be presented next month to the legislature.

In another action today, the group went on record in favor of permitting cities to spend 25 per cent of their share of state motor fuel tax funds on streets not classified as arterial thoroughfares. The present limit is 15 per cent.

Senator William J. Connors (D-Chicago), who submitted the resolution for higher passenger car license fees, said the increase would bring the state an extra $3,500,000 a year. In 1947, auto tag revenue produced $16,348,665. Collections went up in 1948 when more cars were on the roads.
